POSSIBILITY OF A NEW WAR DRIVEN HOME TO BRITISH

Britain Will Spend $2,400,-
000,000 on Armed Forces

AWARE OF DANGERS

Apparently Feel They Are Victims of Own Geographical Position

(The always-present possibility of a new world war has been driven home to the bomb-scarred people of Great Britain by defense measures considered essential by their government. How these measures have affected Britain's position is discussed in the following articles by James E. Brown, veteran International News Service correspondent who was in London when the second World War broke out. It is the second in a series of three.)

By JAMES E. BROWN
INS Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 13 (INS)—Britain will spend $2,400,000,000 on the Navy, Army, and air force this year and $28,000,000 has been allotted for civil defense.

These are impressive figures for a country of England's size and population, and they accurately reflect British awareness of the danger of war.

This might be described as a national feeling that, although an actual "shooting war" may be remote, the possibility of such a conflagration seems to increase daily.

The war feeling in Britain today is surprisingly similar to what this correspondent found in Poland in 1939.

The Poles then felt they were victims of their own geographical position—caught in the middle between the two giants, Germany and Russia.

The British today complain that they are caught between America and Russia.

It should be emphasized that the sympathies of practically all Britons except the Communists would be with the United States in the event of a Soviet-American conflict.

The most significant parallel between the Britain of 1939 and the Britain of 1948 is the use made of "fifth column" methods—the Trojan horse or "enemy within the gates" strategy.

It is noteworthy that England, of all European countries, is particularly vulnerable to this form of attack because of the veneration in which human rights and liberties are held.

Nevertheless, they learned much from being forced to deal with their own Fascists in the Hitler period, and the recent tragedies in eastern Europe swept away much of their reluctance to deal sternly with native Communists.

In this connection it is relevant to point out that the British were much slower than the Americans in accepting the thesis that the Communists are not an ordinary political party but a group owing allegiance to a foreign power.

This understanding of the nature of Communism is now so general that it appears trite to mention it. But, even a year ago, the average British trade unionist did not fully appreciate the distinction.

Czechoslovakia eradicated all remaining illusions, but it also contributed to the growing war fears. The public has fatalistically accepted the ultimate implications of attempting to halt Stalinist expansionism.

Scotland Yard and M. I. 5. (Military Intelligence) have been ordered to point out that the British were much slower than the Americans in accepting the thesis that the Communists are not an ordinary political party but a group owing allegiance to a foreign power.

"Heidi" Warms Hearts Of All Who Witness Play

The play, "Heidi", given at the Grand Theatre this past Saturday, was well received by its audience, both juvenile and adult. The cheering, whistling expressions of approval warmed the hearts of the sponsors and the cast. Fred Baril, who admirably portrayed the part of the grandfather, said, "We had a wonderful responsive audience, who gave us all their attention."

Remarks to the sponsors from adults who attended were such as, "This is a lovely play," and "This is the most wonderful thing that has been done by Bristol."

Comment by Mr. Warren P. Snyder, Superintendent of Schools, on the presentation of these plays in Bristol: "The Children's Theatre should be a permanent part of Bristol. It deserves the support of all the parents in order to make available to our children some of the fine stories which have been developed for the stage. Let us not permit our children to experience only the hard realities of this life. Let them experience the enduring works of the imagination and of the fanciful."

The Sisterhood of Avath Achim sponsors the Children's Theatre productions here.

THE PETERS FUNERAL

Service for Charles Herbert Peters, who died suddenly at his Market street home on Sunday, will be held tomorrow at two p. m. from the Molden funeral chapel, 133 Otter street. Friends may also call this evening. Burial will be made in Bristol Cemetery.

BULLET IS REMOVED FROM CHILD'S KNEE

Parents Thought Rosemary
Marra, Two, Had Gashed
Knee When She Fell

POLICE INVESTIGATE

Rosemary Marra, aged two years, is said to be improving following removal of a .22 calibre bullet from her knee at Harriman Hospital on Saturday.

It is stated that on March 25th, at four o'clock in the afternoon, as the tot was playing on the lawn of her parents' home, she fell to the ground, her knee being gashed open.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Marra, Hilltop avenue and Ford road, Fergusonville, was taken to the hospital, the mother informing, according to the hospital, that the child had evidently cut her knee when she fell. Stitches were taken in the wound.

On Saturday morning last, when the child awoke, the knee was considerably swollen, her parents state. Again taken to the hospital, X-rays were used to determine source of the trouble. These pictures revealed that a bullet was lodged in the knee.

Pennsylvania State Police at Langhorne barracks are investigating. It is believed that a bullet fired in the vicinity of the Marra home and striking Rosemary caused her to fall to the ground. Her parents, having no knowledge of the chance bullet, were of the opinion the tot had gashed her knee in a fall.

FBI AGENT CONSIDERS TYPES OF SWINDLING

W. V. McLaughlin Urges
Officers To Be On Alert
At All Times

AT POLICE SCHOOL

"There are two kinds of suckers in the swindle game," said Walter V. McLaughlin, FBI agent, at the 9th session of the advanced police training school held in Bristol municipal building yesterday morning. "The first kind is the plain ordinary sucker. He bites at a swindle game, gets on the hook, but smartens up soon enough and drops off. The other kind is the 'moother.' He's the kind that bites, gets hooked, and stays hooked and gets taken for a ride by the 'con' man."

McLaughlin went on to mention several of the types of swindle police officers should be on the look out for at all times. "One that is in great prevalence now is the 'Judge Baker racket.' A sucker is picked out, usually one worth money and owning property. One of the 'con' man's agents visits him, offers a large sum of money for his property, much more than it is worth. The sucker bites. At a business conference the 'con' man introduces him to a 'Judge Baker,' who is supposedly a big man in the racing syndicate, but who is really a 'shyster' working with the 'con' man. A fake set-up is arranged in which the 'con' men 'win' $29,000 in races via a credit card.

"Another agent—supposedly a 'bookie,' takes the money to the 'con' men, but asks that they show the same amount they had won in case they had lost and they had to

Bristol Borough Council last night passed, with one dissenting vote, an ordinance which places a tax on amusements. The rate of tax is one cent for each ten cents and a fraction of admission charged. In addition a permit must be obtained from the borough authorities to conduct amusements. Twelve members of council voted favorably on the ordinance while the one dissenting vote was cast by Councilman Clarence W. Winter.

The report of street and highway committee was submitted by the chairman, William A. Pearson. It was approved as read. The report follows:

Projects that were completed or were in the process of being completed at the end of March 1948 are as follows:

1. Change in bus stops on Mill street to relieve congestion caused by cars coming from the parking lot into the path of the bus lines.
- a. Moved the Wood St. stop to the front of C. Winter's showroom.
- b. Moved the Cedar St. stop to the front of Diamond Sporting Goods Store.

This change necessitated the removal of two parking meters from the new locations.

2. White lanes painted across lower end of Mill street from the Delaware House to the Bristol House for the use of pedestrians. The parking of cars at this point formerly blocked foot traffic at this intersection.
3. Meters removed and curbs painted yellow on both sides of Mill street hill to allow a better flow of traffic at this point. Incline of hill plus parking on both sides made driving difficult at this spot.

4. 25-mile speed limit signs placed across highway from No. 2 Fire House to allow room enough for engines to make turns onto highway.

5. Yellow lines painted alongside of No. 6 Fire House and also across street to give more clearance to fire equipment.
7. Yellow lines painted on Forge Bridge and all approaches to eliminate dangerous parking situation.
8. Yellow lines painted across from No. 3 Fire House to allow clearance for fire equipment entering or leaving fire house.

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 13 — Coming to Bucks County from Vermont to address members of Bucks County Holstein Breeders' Association, William Weeks declared at a meeting here last week that herds are getting better. "There is definite evidence that animals are improving," states Mr. Weeks who has been classifying more than 200 Bucks County cows.

"You can be proud of your herds because they rate quite a bit above the average and contain many good cows," he added.

Speaking to about 50 dairymen in the Administration Annex, Mr. Weeks, who pointed out the score will be released when the classifications are finished, said: "The score for the animals I have classified so far is 79 plus. By the time I finish more than 200 herds will be classified."

Prothonotary Isaac S. Gross, Plumstead, presided, and other Holstein celebrities present were John Fairchild, of Berwick, new secretary of the State Association; William Rider, assistant fieldman, and others.

Announcement was made that Glenn Householder, National Fieldman, of Brattleboro, Vermont, will serve as the official judge at the county field day to be held at the farm of Isaac H. Yates, Upper Merion township, July 10.

Secretary Fairchild spoke on the activities of the state association.

CONGRESSMAN LICHTENWALTER ADDRESSES LOYAL REPUBLICANS

BUCKINGHAM, Apr. 13 — There were approximately 700 men and women who attended the meeting of the Loyal Republican Club of Bucks County and its Auxiliary, held last evening at the Club's headquarters to hear Congressman Franklin H. Lichtenwalter from the Bucks-Lehigh District, as guest speaker. They heard the popular member of the house from the Eighth Congressional District describe 1948 as "a year of tremendous decision" and his prediction that "we are going to rid ourselves of the debris that has been collecting for the past 16 years in Washington."

Mrs. Hannah Durham, Allentown, candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention, thanked her many Bucks County friends for their support of each candidate. She also said of the eight or nine men running on the Republican ticket, she was certain that the country could not go wrong in selecting any one of them.

Former U. S. Senator Joseph R. Grundy, Bristol, and State Senator Edward B. Watson, were unable to attend last evening's meeting but greetings were extended by William Weimer, Allentown, an alternate delegate to the Republican National Convention. He said, "It gives us a great lift to come down to Bucks County and see such enthusiastic crowds as this one tonight." Mrs. Durham told the group, Bucks County's two Republican candidates for the state assembly nomination, Wilson L. Yeakel seeking his 11th term and Thomas B. Stockham, Morrisville, seeking his seventh term in Harrisburg, were present.

Members of the Fraternal Order of Police, Bristol Lodge, No. 53, conducted ritualistic services last evening; and members of the various organizations with which Mr. Alta was affiliated paid their respects. Mass was sung this morning in St. Ann's R. C. Church, with burial in St. Mark's Cemetery.

FBI AGENT CONSIDERS TYPES OF SWINDLING

W. V. McLaughlin Urges Officers To Be On Alert At All Times

AT POLICE SCHOOL

"There are two kinds of suckers in the swindle game," said Walter V. McLaughlin, FBI agent, at the 9th session of the advanced police training school held in Bristol municipal building yesterday morning. "The first kind is the plain ordinary sucker. He bites at a swindle game, gets on the hook, but smartens up soon enough and drops off. The other kind is the 'moocher'. He's the kind that bites, gets hooked, and stays hooked and gets taken for a ride by the 'con' man."

McLaughlin went on to mention several of the types of swindle police officers should be on the look out for at all times. "One that is in great prevalence now is the 'Judge Baker racket'. A sucker is picked out, usually one worth money and owning property. One of the 'con' man's agents visits him, offers a large sum of money for his property, much more than it is worth. The sucker bites. At a business conference the 'con' man introduces him to a 'Judge Baker', who is supposedly a big man in the racing syndicate, but who is really a 'shyster' working with the 'con' man. A fake set-up is arranged in which the 'con' man 'win' $20,000 in races via a credit card."

COUNCIL PASSES AMUSEMENT TAX ORDINANCE HERE

Tax of One Cent for Each Ten Cents and Fraction of Admission is Levied

MUST HAVE PERMITS

Other Routine Business Is Transacted at Monthly Session

Bristol Borough Council last night passed, with one dissenting vote, an ordinance which places a tax upon amusements. The rate of tax is one cent for each ten cents and a fraction of admission charged. In addition a permit must be obtained from the borough authorities to conduct amusements. Twelve members of council voted favorably upon the ordinance while the one dissenting vote was cast by Councilman Clarence W. Winter.

The report of street and highway committee was submitted by the chairman, William A. Pearson. It was approved as read. The report follows:

Projects that were completed or were in the process of being completed at the end of March 1948 are as follows:

1. Change in bus stops on Mill street to relieve congestion caused by cars coming from the parking lot into the path of the bus lines.

a. Moved the Wood St. stop to the front of C. Winter's showroom.

b. Moved the Cedar St. stop to the front of Diamond Sporting Goods Store.

This change necessitated the removal of two parking meters from the new locations.

2. White lanes painted across lower end of Mill street from the Delaware House to the Bristol House for the use of pedestrians. The parking of cars at this point formerly blocked foot traffic at this intersection.

3. Meters removed and curbs painted yellow on both sides of Mill street hill to allow a better flow of traffic at this point. Incline of hill plus parking on both sides made driving difficult at this spot.

4. 25-mile speed limit signs placed across highway from No. 2 Fire House to allow room enough for engines to make turns onto highway.

5. Yellow lines painted alongside of No. 6 Fire House and also across street to give more clearance to fire equipment.

6. Yellow lines painted on Forge Bridge and all approaches to eliminate dangerous parking situation.

7. Yellow lines painted across from No. 3 Fire House to allow clearance for fire equipment entering or leaving fire house.

8. "Stop" traffic signs are in order and will be placed at the following intersections:

TOO FAST, TOO SOON

Suspension of all sales of surplus war plants, now ordered by the White House, is a precautionary measure which will win
the approval of the American people. These facilities have not been ordered into operation for military purposes. But the government is going to keep what it might need in case of emergency.

There is, of course, some financial loss involved in the procedure. But compared to the insurance it provides the cost is trifling and Representative Johnson of Texas, who long has been urging action, is wholly correct in his appraisal of it. "We shouldn't," he says, "sell industrial potential to junk dealers today and ask Congress to replace it tomorrow."

The urge to get rid of war surplus of all kinds is understandable. But in this matter, as in the case of the demobilization of the armed forces, the nation may have moved too fast too soon. Fortunately, however, a modicum of foresight has been employed. In instances where there has seemed to be a chance that the government might want to repossess a plant the sale has been conditional.

That definitely should continue to be the policy and no citizen will complain if the administration happens to err on the safe side. Anyway, the 30-day "freeze" which has now been put into effect will be used to re-examine the 230 facilities still owned by the government. Those which obviously can be spared will be sold.
Those which conceivably might be useful will be retained. That is sound business.

The American taxpayers paid
—and are still paying—throughout the nose for these facilities.
To dispose of them now for a small fraction of what they cost if there is a remote possibility that they might be needed would indeed be a faithless performance.

HAIR CUT: $2

Most of the news is bad, and none more so for males than the latest dispatch from Anchorage,
defense boom town in Alaska.
Haircuts there jumped from $1.50 to $2. Yet—two iron men.

Taking note of this latest development on the scene acted to alleviate the impact on their personnel thusly:

"Employees are expected to maintain a neat and sanitary appearance, but no question will be raised over the extension of normal periods between haircuts to five or six weeks—or longer—
provided there is no interference in an employee's general efficiency."

Perhaps it won't be long until men again adopt the hirsute mode of frontier days affected by Custer and Cody. Less provocation has produced more violent reaction on occasion in the past.

Americans are urged to watch their weight. Russians to quit throwing theirs around.

Inside Your Congress

Political Scene Today

SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

The latest Gallup Poll gives Wallace 16% of the popular vote. If 50,000,000 votes are cast that makes 5,000,000. He may double that. For every Communist vote, Wallace will get two or three more from those who have no "truck" with Communism. Wallace is the only candidate who is dead against universal military conscription and World War III. (Tait comes closest to him on these two points.) Right or wrong, millions are against conscription and war. Consequently, Wallace's November vote will seem to raise a bigger Communist scarecrow than the facts will warrant.

Democratic leaders now doubt if Truman will carry New York City
—the old stronghold. He may even run third in the big city. In the South, three states may go Republican. If MacArthur is the candidate, there may be more. It would be easier for Dixie to vote for Mac-Arthur than others in the field who have taken positions on F. E. C. C.
poll tax, and anti-lynching that offend the South.

In 1944, the Republicans got 37%
of the vote in Virginia; in North Carolina, 34%; in Florida and Arkansas, 30%; in Texas, the G. O.
P. and Texas regulars, together, got 326,000 votes, or 29%.

In 1928, Mr. Hoover carried Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri,
North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas
and Virginia. That was on the religious issue. Does the South feel less keenly on Mr. Truman's federal "force" bills?

Truman claims that he goes no
farther on civil rights than the platform upon which Roosevelt and he carried all Southern states. How, then, do you explain the Dixie revolt? There are three reasons, probably. One, that 1944 was a war year; two, that Truman is a South-erner, and the South won't take from him what it did from the "old Maestro"; three, the South never really expected Roosevelt to do anything with "civil rights" except to make the usual gestures.

And gestures, of course, is all this has been for 89 years. The 14th Amendment became the supreme law of the land in 1868. It provides that when "the right to vote at any election for President" etc., is denied, or abridged by any state for any reason except "for participation in rebellion, or other crime," the number of congressmen from such state shall be reduced proportionately.

Since 1868, Republicans have been in power, 48 years, and the Democrats, 32 years. But has the 14th Amendment been enforced by either party? No. Yet in every election, the old stalking horse is brought down from the thistle patch and goaded gently with loud noises.

It is only the "do-gooders" who think they can cure deep-seated issues of this sort by "passing a law." The 14th Amendment is a law, is it not? Brand Whitlock once said: "Law is whatever the public will back up." That kind of law need not be written in a book. The common law of England was in no book. It was in men's heads and hearts. If "law" is put in a book grand juries may refuse to indict, petty juries to convict, and witnesses to testify. Look at prohibition!

This whole question reeks with political hypocrisy. It should be left to the growth of public opinion and moral sentiment in school,
church and home.

If Truman and Wallace both stay in the race, Wallace is apt to have a more militant following than Truman during the next four years.
Where, then, will the Democrats who are both anti-Truman, and anti-Wallace go? Is this the beginning of a new Right-Left line-up and a two-party South? Will the Republicans bury "the bloody shirt" or do they prefer to go into every Presidential race under the handicap of 137 electoral college votes?

Possibility of A New War Driven Home to British

ered to keep stricter watch on subversive elements, and it is now planned to place increasing numbers of special branch officers in factories where Communists are active.

It is known that the Communist party is extending its drive to gain control of shop stewards' committees in factories, especially in those shops where they cannot openly win key positions in the trade unions.

According to official Communist figures, three months ago there were 250 Communist-controlled factory committees, and there were two or more party members on the committees of 550 other factories.

It was announced then that the target was control of 800 factories, and this goal has recently been raised.

On February 17, in the House of Commons, the Prime Minister's parliamentary private secretary said the government was keeping a close watch on any activities designed to subvert the constitution and would not fail to take any measures necessary in the interests of national security.

Nevertheless, it is admitted that these are relatively weak defensive measures when contrasted with the fact that since 1939 the Soviets have annexed 273,000 square miles of territory and 24,000,000 people.

This is the grim reality which has planned not only Britain but all of western Europe.

In the final analysis, the 43,000
membership total of the British Communist party is not impressive, but they would be valuable to an enemy for purposes of sabotage and espionage.

They hold a number of key positions in the trade unions, and they have many sympathizers in important posts.

The sympathizers, or "fellow travellers," create the hardest problem for the police, and it is certain that the potential menace of these semi-Communists is the subject of much study.

On the positive side, the British themselves have an excellent Secret Service with a wide knowledge of underground warfare in Europe.

The Soviets would have many enemies in their rear if they over-ran the continent. Some hint of this was given by Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, in a recent speech when he said:

"I hope that as resistance develops, with the same resources and initiative and sacrifice as in the war against Hitler, a new 'resistance' will rise against tyranny, whatever the color of its shirt may be."

But, while Russia does not hold all the cards, the feeling in Britain is reflected almost entirely in gloomy resignation to what sometimes seems to be the inevitable—
but the British people still hope it won't happen.

and Why.)

Portrait of a Stockholder

EXAMINE THIS PORTRAIT CLOSELY, for it may not be your idea of a stockholder. Nevertheless, that's precisely what it is, and a very important stockholder at that.

Through their savings, thousands of telephone men and women share in the ownership of the Bell System.

And who are the other stockholders? They're people in all walks of life: School teachers and widows... ministers and mechanics... farmers and business men. About a third of the 723,000 stockholders own five shares or fewer, and no one person or institution owns as much as one-third of one percent of the stock.

These are the people who share in the ownership of the Bell System, through their savings. They expect their savings to be secure and they expect a reasonable, steady return on their investment.
It is our responsibility, in providing good telephone service at low cost, to see to it that they get just that.

WARRIORS WILL OPEN SEASON WITH LANGHORNE, WED.

The Bristol High Warriors will open their baseball season tomorrow afternoon, clashing with the Langhorne Redskins on Playwick field, Langhorne. Langhorne is the defending champion of the Lower Bucks County League.

Captain Jerry Bloom has had but one week of drilling with his baseball players but feels as if he can mould together a fine band of representatives to the national pastime.

Candidates for the pitching positions are: George Adams, Joe Ashby, Dave Muth, Dick Harman, and William Dunkleberger. The catchers are Frankie Barbetta and Joe Domenick. The latter is a better ball chouter but Barbetta, the better receiver.

"Johnny" Pindar and "Bill" Moll are the first sackers with "Jim" Morrell and Jack Rosser sharing second base honors. Dave Morrell appears certain to have shortstop although Marty Braam is showing up well. Paul "Hank" Kilian practically has the hot corner sewed up.

Those trying out for the outergarden are: Frank Murphy, William DeRisi, Frank Elker, and Earl Cochran. Cochran can also be used for catching duty.

Cochran Bloom has not named his starting lineup.

Team managers are George Hatterfield and James Mitchell.

GOODWILL TO PRACTICE

The Goodwill Hose baseball team will hold a practice session tomorrow evening at 5:30 o'clock on the Third Ward field. All players are requested to attend. The players are also requested to report at the Goodwill Hose fire station at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night for an important meeting.

Here and There In Bucks County Towns

ture underneath the floor gave way, and the rear wheels of the heavily loaded truck went to the floor. At the same time the body of the truck fell toward the partition, and Mr. Diehl was pinned between the truck and the partition.

He was held in that position at least half an hour, and Plumsteadville Fire Company was called to help move the truck and remove Mr. Diehl from his position.

Although Mr. Diehl is suffering from severe shock and bruises, it is not believed he received any broken bones.

The final step in the incorporation of the Doylestown Country Club and the purchase of the land and buildings of the club from Joseph Rich estate, took place last week at a general meeting of the club, at which time officers of the new corporation were elected and by laws adopted.

Under the new setup there is a board of officers, seven directors and an executive committee.

Officers elected at the January meeting, when the club was operating without a charter of incorporation, were elected last week to head the new corporation. They are: President, J. Carroll Molloy, Jr.; vice president, Robert J. Siegler; secretary, A. Russell Thomas; treasurer, George R. Smith.

Directors include: Dr. Andrew Godfrey, Arthur M. Eastburn, Dr. Fred Lutz, Robert B. Conroy, Paul Horn, Russell B. Gulick, Charles Radcliff.

Cedar and Market Sts. Wood and Market Sts. Pond and Market Sts. Wood and Walnut Sts. 10. Alley between Mansion and Garden streets has been re-graded and a sewer line has been installed. This job is not quite completed at the present time.

11. A program is now underway to scrape and roll all borough alleys.

12. One way, no parking and other signs are on order for use on a project for traffic control in the center of the Borough. This project was prepared in conjunction with the Police Committee and further information regarding enforcement, effective date, etc., will be issued when the program has been completed.

13. All street lights in the borough will be increased from 100 watts to 250 watts by the end of July 1948.

14. Notices are now being prepared on all payments in need of repair or replacement including borough, school and P. R. R. property.

15. The meters that have been removed from Mill street hill will be placed on the lower end of Bath street to restrict parking to shorter periods of time. In this way a larger number of cars can be accommodated.

16. The cleaning of streets and gutters have been partly completed and will be continued.

17. At the request of our rubbish collector Mr. Lattanzi, the borough dump will be put under his jurisdiction and it will be his responsibility to keep the dump in the best possible condition and prevent papers from blowing all over town.

This report covers most of the projects under way at the present time and a report will be issued monthly showing the progress of this committee in carrying out the duties of the Street and Highway Department. Any suggestions along this line will be welcomed by this committee.

Mr. Pearson also was given approval to purchase a heavy duty Chevrolet truck for the sum of $2246.96 for the use of the borough.

Police committee reported seven arrests and all held for court. There were 173 lodgers sheltered, three doors found unlocked, 136 alarms answered by radio car, which was driven 3790 miles. There were 86 fined for motor violations and the collections from the parking meters totaled $822.10.

Police reported the hiring of Thomas Reed for nine hours as dog catcher. Four dogs were caught. Police have been assigned during certain hours to designated sections of the borough to check speeding of motorists. Seventeen motorists were fined. Five accidents were investigated, in which two persons were severely injured and property damaged in three of the accidents.

Louis C. Spring, chairman of water committee, reported that as of March 29, 1948, the receipts from the sale of water in 1948 totaled $92,000 while last year the receipts were $80,000. Much of the increase was derived from additional faucets which were discovered through inspection of properties and the collection of delinquent accounts.

Richard T. Meyers, chairman of health and sanitation committee, informed council that due to some leaks in the sewage system some of the sewage had drained onto the property of Rohm & Haas Co. The leaks have now been abated. The fill at Fourth avenue for sewer extension has been made but must settle before the pipe is laid.

The ordinance providing for an amusement tax was called to the attention of council by Edward J. Riley, chairman of finance committee, under unfinished business. He asked that the ordinance be re-read and that the rules of council be suspended and the ordinance passed or rejected. The ordinance was passed.

Councilman I. J. Hetherington asked if a reply had been received from Senator Edward B. Watson concerning a proposed meeting with a committee to discuss the condition of the Delaware Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. Secretary Joseph B. Keating read a reply from Senator Watson which did not meet with the satisfaction of the committee. Secretary Keating was instructed to again write Mr. Watson requesting that he come to Bristol and meet with the committee for the purpose suggested. In his reply Senator Watson informed council that bids for the building of an aqueduct at Point Pleasant would be opened April 19th, and that after that time he would be better qualified to consider the canal project here. It was the consensus of opinion of council that Senator Watson did not thoroughly understand what council has in mind concerning the canal, and for that reason a meeting is desirable. It is the desire of council to have the canal filled in.

President Charles G. Rathke announced that he would have to name a new committee to draft a plumbing code as several members of the committee previously appointed were no longer members of council.

Borough treasurer, Harold Hunter, informed council that a system of requisitions is now effective for the purchase of everything but labor for the borough.

Francis J. Byers, councilman from first ward, asked that the ditch along Canal street, extending 255 feet along the Barker & Williamson plant be eliminated as it is the source of an objectionable odor. It was referred to health and sanitation committee.

Councilman Spring submitted a form of agreement for extending a water main along Tenth avenue, from Beaver street to Main street, a distance of about 400 feet to the property of C. Caucci. Mr. Caucci is to advance the money for the costs and when the annual rentals reach 15 per cent of the cost the borough will take title to the mains and refund the cost to Mr. Caucci.

The question of extending a sewer line to the Caucci property was discussed but withheld for the time being because the street has not been accepted by Bristol Township and the grade of the property is too low.

Councilman John Raccagno asked that the condition of Adams Hollow Creek be investigated.

Councilmen absent were Alta, Mitchener, Gosline, Foster, Roche, Burgess, Jacob C. Schmidt and Solicitor John Leslie Kilcoyne were in attendance.

pay it. The sucker chips in a few thousand because it looks legitimate and the $20,000 is gathered.

"In the end the sucker loses his money by an intricate set-up in which he is involved in a fake murder.

"Another one is the 'horse race racket', the 'con' man sends out eight letters, the number of horses in the race. All the letters are identical, but each letter has a different horse's name in the same race. All he asks is a cut of the winning. Naturally one of the horses has to win and the 'con' man is in.

"There is the 'hitch hike racket', in which you pick up a girl and happen to take her over the state line—an innocent way of violating the Mann act, but many get hooked on it.

"Following the hearse" is a swindle used to a great extent. The swindlers learn of a recent death and go to the home with some goods the deceased has supposedly ordered before dying. He hasn't, but the next of kin know nothing of it and pay off in ignorance of it.

"Another swindle similar to the hitch hike racket is the 'attack' racket in which you pick a girl up and she threatens to scream you had attacked her if you don't pay off. This usually takes place in a crowded area, near a police officer. If you're gullible enough you'll pay off.

"The 'drug store racket' is used to good advantage by swindlers.

They call a drug store, order a few pennies worth of merchandise and ask to have it sent to a hotel with change for $10. The 'con' man leaves the room and meets the boy with the goods at the door and pays off with a check after he gets the change and the goods. He is gone before anyone knows what has really happened.

"The 'Spanish Prisoner Swindle' pays off for 'con' men. A fellow and girl usually work this one out. They send a letter from Mexico to some unsuspecting sucker saying the letter is from a Spanish political prisoner who needs some help in getting a trunk full of money across the border and if this man will help him he can have one-third of the money in the trunk. The sucker goes and meets the girl associate. There is no trunk, and the sucker is fleeced before he knows it."

Other swindle deals mentioned were the "fertilizer racket" in which fake fertilizer is used for gardens, lawns, etc. by 'con' men and exorbitant prices are charged for it. "The furnace or machine racket" in which furnaces, sewing machines, lawn mowers, are repaired by the fleecers, only to have them break down and when the men return the second time to repair the article, they say they have to take it with them and that is the last time you see it. There is also the suit club racket in which you pay $1 a week and at the end of 29 weeks you get a suit, and also have a chance to win one free. A suit is given away free each week. At the end of the 29 weeks, the sucker who doesn't ever win a suit goes to get the one he is promised for his $29 dollars only to find out he is getting a cheaper grade of cloth, or has to pay more to get the suit.

The FBI agent told the class that the FBI could help if over $5000 is involved and the money crosses a state line. It is not in their jurisdiction if these factors aren't present.

At the beginning of the class McLaughlin gave a brief history of the FBI and the Smith-Almedia case and how FBI agents captured the two criminals after a bank hold up in New Orleans, La. These two men are wanted in Philadelphia in connection with a robbery and murder of Patrolman Cecil Ingling.

Next week the subject will be "Burglary Investigations".

advance selling prices as rapidly as costs increased, and due, perhaps, to a larger extent to our inability to adjust our selling prices to a level which would return the proper percentage of profit in relation to sales, after paying the existing high federal corporate tax. Had we been able to more nearly equal our pre-war percentage of net profits to sales we could have continued our traditional policy of financing growth from earnings instead of creating a debt and a preferred stock issue."

McKnight said that while the percentage of profit to sales varies in every business, depending upon the nature of the business involved, industry generally has been, or is now confronted with the same financing problem that confronted the 3M Company, and indicates that the criticism of present corporate profits is largely unwarranted if industry is to maintain a sound capital structure.

"The critics of what they choose to call exorbitant profits usually compare current profits before taxes with those of some prior year in the late 20's or early 30's, without adjusting for taxes or relating net profits in either period to volume of sales or to capital invested. It takes a large amount of capital to finance a growing business, and unless net profits after taxes from year to year bear some relation to that growth in business and resulting increase in capital requirements, any growing business will reach a point where it will be unable to finance itself."

McKnight also pointed out to the stockholders that over-all dollar sales of the parent company showed an increase of approximately 30% in 1947, although a part of the dollar increase came from increases in selling prices. Every division of the company showed an increase over 1946 in the number of units sold.

In commenting on market acceptance of the newer products in the 3M line, he emphasized the unusual growth of the Adhesives and Coating Division and the Scotchlite Division. These increases came primarily from increased units sold rather than from price advances. Underseal, a tough, rubberized coating being applied to the underparts of automobiles and other vehicles to protect against rust, corrosion, and road noises, has largely accounted for the increase in the Adhesives Division. This product is now being manufactured in plants at Detroit, Michigan; Lemont, Illinois; Los Angeles, California; and Jackson, Michigan.

"During the fourteen year period ended December 31, 1947," McKnight said, "total sales of products other than abrasives manufactured by the parent company amounted to $317,000,000. These products are almost solely a result of research. For each $1 spent in our laboratories, we produced approximately $29 in new product sales during that period."

McKnight was reluctant to make any prediction regarding 1948, since so much depends on world affairs and particularly future relations with Russia. However, he said, "Assuming no war and reasonable industrial activity in this country, I believe our operations should be satisfactory during the year, with perhaps a smaller ratio of profits to sales, as we expect to find it in."

gress has held up its part of the program for a better country." Congressman Lichtenwaller commented briefly on the Marshall plan. "The American people have a right to know all about the operation of this plan. They have a right to know that under the relief angle of the plan, there will be shipped from the United States and South America, all types of goods made here, many of them being short right now and that the plan is bound to have an important part in our own economy at home. What alarms me is that in the House, we had an amendment on the relief issue of the Marshall Plan that was turned down. Our amendment would have placed on every package of relief goods going abroad, the stamp of the American flag and the package would have gone direct to the people. But no, this amendment was turned down. We were told that we could not do things that way. We learned that commitments had been made to the foreign governments and that we could not deal directly with the people in distress. The relief goods are now going to the government and the government in turn will sell to the people. The poor hungry people have to pay and pay well for the gifts from America. It is high time the American people are aware of the truth."

"The Republican Congress has done a great good for the American people. A change in the White House is going to make a big difference. The election of a Republican President and a Republican Congress, will mean that a new day has dawned on our people and America will have attained a real and lasting peace."

A minstrel show given by a group from Feasterville, followed the meeting.

Frost Does No Damage To Bucks Peach Buds

LUMBERTVILLE, Apr. 13.—It is not thought that peach buds in Bucks County were damaged by the frost of a few nights ago, inasmuch as they were not in bloom at the time.

E. M. Paxson, owner of large peach and apple orchards near here, states there is no evidence that frost did any damage. Some parts of Bucks escaped the frost, due to the wind.

WARRIORS WILL OPEN SEASON WITH LANGHORNE, WED.

The Bristol High Warriors will open their baseball season tomorrow afternoon, clashing with the Langhorne Redskins on Playwick field, Langhorne. Langhorne is the defending champion of the Lower Bucks County League.

Captain Jerry Bloom has had but one week of drilling with his baseball players but feels as if he can mould together a fine band of representatives to the national pastime.

Candidates for the pitching positions are: George Adams, Joe Ashby, Dave Muth, Dick Harman, and William Dunkelberger. The catchers are Frankie Harbetta and Joe Domenick. The latter is a better ball catcher but Harbetta, the better receiver.

"Johnny" Pindar and "Bill" Moll are the first sackers with "Jim" Morrell and Jack Rosser sharing second base honors. Dave Morrell appears certain to have shortstop clinched although Marty Braam is showing up well. Paul "Hank" Kilian practically has the hot corner sewed up.

Those trying out for the outfield are: Frank Murphy, William Dellisi, Frank Elker, and Earl Cochran. Cochran can also be used for catching duty.

Captain Bloom has not named his starting lineup.

Team managers are George Hatfield and James Mitchell.

GOODWILL TO PRACTICE

The Goodwill Hose baseball team will hold a practice session tomorrow evening at 5:30 o'clock on the Third Ward field. All players are requested to attend. The players are also requested to report at the Goodwill Hose fire station at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night for an important meeting.

There is also the suit club racket in which you pay $1 a week and at the end of 39 weeks you get a suit, and also have a chance to win one free. A suit is given away free each week.

At the end of the 39 weeks, the sucker who doesn't ever win a suit goes to get the one he is promised for his $39 dollars only to find out he is getting a cheaper grade of cloth, or has to pay more to get the suit.

The FBI agent told the class that the FBI could help if over $5000 is involved and the money crosses a state line. It is not in their jurisdiction if these factors aren't present.

At the beginning of the class McLaughlin gave a brief history of the FBI and the Smith-Act case and how FBI agents captured the two criminals after a bank hold up in New Orleans, La. These two men are wanted in Philadelphia in connection with a robbery and murder of Patrolman Cecil Ingling.

Next week the subject will be "Burglary Investigations."

advance selling prices as rapidly as costs increased, and due, perhaps, to a larger extent to our inability to adjust our selling prices to a level which would return the proper percentage of profit in relation to sales, after paying the existing high federal corporate tax. Had we been able to more nearly equal our pre-war percentage of net profits to sales we could have continued our traditional policy of financing growth from earnings instead of creating a debt and a preferred stock issue."

McKnight said that while the percentage of profit to sales varies in every business, depending upon the nature of the business involved, industry generally has been, or is now confronted with the same financing problem that confronted the 3M Company, and indicates that the criticism of present corporate profits is largely unwarranted if industry is to maintain a sound capital structure.

"The critics of what they choose to call exorbitant profits usually compare current profits before taxes with those of some prior year in the late 20's or early 30's, without adjusting for taxes or relating net profits in either period to volume of sales or to capital invested. It takes a large amount of capital to finance a growing business, and unless net profits after taxes from year to year bear some relation to that growth in business and resulting increase in capital requirements, any growing business will reach a point where it will be unable to finance itself."

McKnight also pointed out to the stockholders that over-all dollar sales of the parent company showed an increase of approximately 36% in 1947, although a part of the dollar increase came from increases in selling prices. Every division of the company showed an increase over 1946 in the number of units sold.

In commenting on market acceptance of the newer products in the 3M line, he emphasized the unusual growth of the Adhesives and Coating Division and the Scotchlite Division. These increases came primarily from increased units sold rather than from price advances. Underseal, a tough, rubberized coating being applied to the underparts of automobiles and other vehicles to protect against rust, corrosion, and road noises, has largely accounted for the increase in the Adhesives Division. This product is now being manufactured in plants at Detroit, Michigan; Lemont, Illinois; Los Angeles, California; and Jackson, Michigan.

"During the fourteen year period ended December 31, 1947," McKnight said, "total sales of products other than abrasives manufactured by the parent company amounted to $317,000,000. These products are almost solely a result of research. For each $1 spent in our laboratories, we produced approximately $29 in new product sales during that period."

McKnight was reluctant to make any prediction regarding 1948, since so much depends on world affairs and particularly future relations with Russia. However, he said, "Assuming no war and reasonable industrial activity in this country, I believe our operations should be satisfactory during the year, with perhaps a smaller ratio of profits to sales, as we expect to find it increasingly difficult to advance prices as rapidly as unavoidable increases in costs occur."

The stockholders will elect directors for the ensuing year. Those nominated are: Herbert P. Buetow, Archibald G. Bush, Richard P. Carlton, William M. Collins, Jr., John L. Connelly, John C. Owan, George H. Halpin, William L. McKnight, and John G. Ordway.

Congressman Lichtenwalter Addresses Republican Club

gress has held up its part of the program for a better country." Congressman Lichtenwalter commented briefly on the Marshall plan. "The American people have a right to know all about the operation of this plan. They have a right to know that under the relief angle of the plan, there will be shipped from the United States and South America, all types of goods made here, many of them being short right now and that the plan is bound to have an important part in our own economy at home. What alarms me is that in the House, we had an amendment on the relief issue of the Marshall Plan that was turned down. Our amendment would have placed on every package of relief goods going abroad, the stamp of the American flag and the package would have gone direct to the people. But no, this amendment was turned down. We were told that we could not do things that way. We learned that commitments had been made to the foreign governments and that we could not deal directly with the people in distress. The relief goods are now going to the government and the government in turn will sell to the people. The poor hungry people have to pay and pay well for the gifts from America. It is high time the American people are aware of the truth."

"The Republican Congress has done a great good for the American people. A change in the White House is going to make a big difference. The election of a Republican President and a Republican Congress, will mean that a new day has dawned on our people and America will have attained a real and lasting peace."

A minstrel show given by a group from Feasterville, followed the meeting.

Frost Does No Damage To Bucks Peach Buds

LUMBERTVILLE, Apr. 13 — It is not thought that peach buds in Bucks County were damaged by the frost of a few nights ago, inasmuch as they were not in bloom at the time.

E. M. Paxson, owner of large peach and apple orchards near here, states there is no evidence that frost did any damage. Some parts of Bucks escaped the frost, due to the wind.
